

Ogerem

The Ogerem are a large, offensive-looking race of tall, humanoid creatures resembling Ogres in many ways. Usually standing no more than 8 feet tall, Ogerem are often seen with elongated arms, a large pot-belly, and heavily misfigured facial features. Even the smallest and skinniest of the Ogerem sport broad shoulders and barrel chests, with skin tones varying between pale blues, deep greens, and near-Human colorations. While body hair often covers the Ogerem, they are not known to be able to grow hair on their head or face. To account for this, many Ogerem will get head or neck tattoos in its place.

Although there are heavy similarities between the Ogerem and Ogres, there is no historical record or scientific link that has been discovered to link the two together - at least, no closer than linking a Glider to a Glidette. These large, good-hearted creatures tend to live their lives in peace, wandering through the plains; however, there are some Ogerem families known to live in Highpeak City, among many other places. Most Ogerem do not actively seek out violence or combat; however, they can also be quick-tempered. Wandering upon an otherwise friendly Ogerem and stealing his food (which he would have likely shared) may result in a very sudden demise for a hungry adventurer.

Despite beliefs among the lesser educated, Ogerem do not eat meat from creatures that they consider cultured, intelligent, or civilized. Wild animals, goblins, and fruits are the Ogerem's diet of choice, and they eat a significant amount of food every day. Actually, due to their massive size and density, Ogerem need to eat about twice as much as other creatures their size to avoid the effects of starvation and dehydration.

Racial Traits

Ability Scores. Your Constitution score increases by 2, and your Strength score increases by 1.

Age. The Ogerem push their young to achieve tasks beyond their means, forcing them to reach maturity around age 12, at least in the eyes of Ogerem society. While some Ogerem have lived to be over 200 years old, the average lifespan of an Ogerem is often no more than 125 years.

Alignment. Ogerem temperament usually sways towards good; however, this often proves difficult to achieve with the Ogerem's horrific appearance. Ogerem often follow a code of honor, whether set by their clan or by themselves.

Size. Ogerem stand between 7 and 8 feet tall and weigh between 280 and 340 pounds. Your size is Medium.

Speed. Your base walking speed is 30 feet.

Darkvision. You can see in dim light within 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You can't discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Languages. You can speak, read and write Common and Giant.

Noxious Presence. As a bonus action, you release a foul, overwhelming odor from your skin and breath. Each creature within 10 feet of you must make a Constitution saving throw (DC = 8 + your proficiency bonus + your Constitution modifier). On a failed save, a creature is poisoned until the end of your next turn. Creatures that don't need to breathe or are immune to poison automatically succeed on this save. Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you finish a long rest.

Powerful Build. You count as one size larger when determining your carrying capacity and the weight you can push, drag, or lift.

Thick Skin. You have advantage on saving throws against disease and poison, and you have resistance to poison damage.

Sturdy. Your sheer bulk makes you difficult to move against your will. You have advantage on saving throws and ability checks against being knocked prone or moved forcibly.

Giant Diet. You require twice as much food and drink per day as a standard Medium creature to avoid the effects of exhaustion from starvation.