

BARBARIAN

Fueled by an inner rage, the Barbarians of Pliara are a terrifying force. Known well for their unrelenting fortitude and insatiable rage, it is rare for those who cross a Barbarian to live long enough to tell their tales.

Hit Points

Hit Dice: 1d12 per Barbarian Level

Hit Points at 1st Level: 12 + your Constitution Modifier

Hit Points at Higher Levels: 1d12 (or 7) + your Constitution Modifier per Barbarian level after 1st

Equipment

You start with the following equipment, in addition to the equipment granted by your background:

- (a) a greataxe or (b) any martial melee weapon
- (a) two handaxes or (b) any simple weapon
- An explorer's pack and four javelins

Proficiencies

Armor: Light Armor, Medium Armor, Shields

Weapons: Simple Weapons, Martial Weapons

Tools: None

Saving Throws: Strength, Constitution

Skills: Choose Two from:

Animal Handling

Athletics

Intimidation

Nature

Perception

Survival

Barbarian Class Table

Level	Proficiency Bonus	Class Feature	Rages	Rage Bonus
1	+2	Rage, Unarmored Defense	2	+2
2	+2	Reckless Attack, Danger Sense	2	+2
3	+2	Primal Path	3	+2
4	+2	Ability Score Improvement	3	+2
5	+3	Extra Attack, Fast Movement	3	+2
6	+3	Path Feature	4	+2
7	+3	Feral Instinct	4	+2
8	+3	Ability Score Improvement	4	+2
9	+4	Brutal Critical (1 Die)	4	+3
10	+4	Path Feature	4	+3
11	+4	Relentless Rage	4	+3
12	+4	Ability Score Improvement	5	+3
13	+5	Brutal Critical (2 Die)	5	+3
14	+5	Path Feature	5	+3
15	+5	Persistent Rage	5	+3
16	+5	Ability Score Improvement	5	+4
17	+6	Brutal Critical (3 Die)	6	+4
18	+6	Indomitable Might	6	+4
19	+6	Ability Score Improvement	6	+4
20	+6	Primal Champion	Unlimited	+4

BARBARIAN CLASS FEATURES

Rage

In battle, you fight with primal ferocity. On your turn, you can enter a rage as a bonus action. While raging, you gain the following benefits if you aren't wearing heavy armor:

- You have advantage on Strength checks and Strength saving throws.
- When you make a melee weapon attack using Strength, you gain a bonus to the damage roll that increases as you gain levels as a barbarian, as shown in the Rage Damage column of the Barbarian table.
- You have resistance to bludgeoning, piercing, and slashing damage.
- If you are able to cast spells, you can't cast them or concentrate on them while raging.

Your rage lasts for 1 minute. It ends early if you are knocked unconscious or if your turn ends and you haven't attacked a hostile creature since your last turn or taken damage since then. You can also end your rage on your turn as a bonus action.

Once you have raged the number of times shown for your barbarian level in the Rages column of the Barbarian table, you must finish a long rest before you can rage again.

Unarmored Defense

While you are not wearing any armor, your armor class equals 10 + your Dexterity modifier + your Constitution modifier. You can use a shield and still gain this benefit.

Danger Sense

At 2nd level, you gain an uncanny sense of when things nearby aren't as they should be, giving you an edge when you dodge away from danger. You have advantage on Dexterity saving throws against effects that you can see, such as traps and spells. To gain this benefit, you can't be blinded, deafened, or incapacitated.

Reckless Attack

Starting at 2nd level, you can throw aside all concern for defense to attack with fierce desperation. When you make your first attack on your turn, you can decide to attack recklessly. Doing so gives you advantage on melee weapon attack rolls using Strength during this turn, but attack rolls against you have advantage until your next turn.

Primal Path

At 3rd level, you choose a path that shapes the nature of your rage. Your choice grants you features at 3rd level and again at 6th, 10th, and 14th levels.

Ability Score Improvement

When you reach 4th level, and again at 8th, 12th, 16th, and 19th level, you can increase one ability score of your choice by 2, or you can increase two ability scores of your choice by 1. As normal, you can't increase an ability score above 20 using this feature.

Extra Attack

Beginning at 5th level, you can attack twice, instead of once, whenever you take the Attack action on your turn.

Fast Movement

Starting at 5th level, your speed increases by 10 feet while you aren't wearing heavy armor.

Feral Instinct

By 7th level, your instincts are so honed that you have advantage on initiative rolls.

Additionally, if you are surprised at the beginning of combat and aren't incapacitated, you can act normally on your first turn, but only if you enter your rage before doing anything else on that turn.

Brutal Critical

Beginning at 9th level, you can roll one additional weapon damage die when determining the extra damage for a critical hit with a melee attack. This increases to two additional dice at 13th level and three additional dice at 17th level.

BARBARIAN CLASS FEATURES

Relentless Rage

Starting at 11th level, your rage can keep you fighting despite grievous wounds. If you drop to 0 hit points while you're raging and don't die outright, you can make a DC 10 Constitution saving throw. If you succeed, you drop to 1 hit point instead.

Each time you use this feature after the first, the DC increases by 5. When you finish a short or long rest, the DC resets to 10.

Persistent Rage

Beginning at 15th level, your rage is so fierce that it ends early only if you fall unconscious or if you choose to end it.

Indomitable Might

Beginning at 18th level, if your total for a Strength check is less than your Strength score, you can use that score in place of the total.

Primal Champion

At 20th level, you embody the power of the wilds. Your Strength and Constitution scores increase by 4. Your maximum for those scores is now 24.

PATH OF THE CONQUEROR

BARBARIAN SUB-CLASS

In the most ancient of times, long before civilization and community were words on anybody's tongue, lands were conquered and taken by force. The first known record of the Path of the Conqueror traces to the fall of Alvaron, a hero widely known along the coast of the Highpeak continent. After years of slaying monsters and helping people, Alvaron and his party were taken down by Varak the Iron Crowned, a name spoken with both awe and dread in early chronicles. Varak was a lone warrior who refused to kneel to any ruler, believing that authority belonged only to those strong enough to seize it. Channeling his rage in a new direction, conquest, Varak and his unwaveringly loyal followers brought about a new movement for rage-fueled Barbarians.

The Barbarian that follows the Path of the Conqueror knows joy only in conquest. Subjugating the inferior, striking fear in your enemies, and laying waste to those who oppose them, these barbarians are often seen accompanying top military strategists or guarding valuable hoards.

Level 3 - You Chose Poorly

With a powerful enough strike, you are able to temporarily convince your enemies that they are fighting for the losing team, causing them to fight for you instead. Once per turn when you successfully damage a creature with a melee weapon attack, you can attempt to sway its loyalty. The creature must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw with a DC equal to 10 or half the damage dealt by the attack (whichever is higher) or be charmed by you until the end of its next turn.

While charmed in this way, the creature regards your enemies as hostile and will not willingly target you or your allies with attacks.

Only one creature can be charmed by you in this way at a time.

Level 6 - Aura of Menace

Starting at 6th level, you can project an aura of pure menace, choosing to either inspire fear or goad your foes into a reckless assault. As an action, you release this presence, choosing one of the following effects: Frightening or Taunting. Choose up to 5 creatures that you can see within a 30-foot radius of you. Each target must succeed on an Insight check contested by your Intimidation check. On a failure, the creature is subjected to the chosen effect for the duration.

Frightening Aura: The creature is frightened of you for one minute. It can repeat the Insight check at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

Taunting Aura: The creature has disadvantage on attack rolls against any creature other than you until the end of its next turn.

Only one Aura of Menace can be active at a time. You can use this feature a number of times equal to your Charisma modifier (minimum of once). You regain all expended uses after a long rest.

Level 10 - You've Chosen Well

Starting at 10th level, you can use your bonus action while raging to incite an ally. Choose up to two willing creatures, other than yourself, that you can see within 30 feet. The first time the creature hits with a melee weapon attack before the start of your next turn, it may add your rage damage bonus to the damage roll. You can use this feature a number of times equal to your Constitution modifier (minimum of once), and you regain all expended uses when you finish a long rest.

Level 14 - Serve Me!

Starting at level 14, you learn to command others through fear alone. As an action, you can cast Command as a spell-like ability at 3rd Level. When cast in this way, instead of a standard saving throw, the target must succeed on an Insight (Wisdom) check contested by your Intimidation (Charisma) check. You can use this ability while raging.

You may use this ability a number of times equal to your Charisma modifier per long rest.

PATH OF THE MAGE SLAYER

BARBARIAN SUB-CLASS

The Path of the Mage Slayer traces its origins to an old order known as the Verdant Wardens, a group that once lived deep within the reaches of the Amobo forests. These warriors believed that runaway arcane power threatened the balance of the natural world. To defend that balance, they trained their bodies to endure extreme strain and conditioned their minds to resist illusions, enchantments, and the strange whispers of the unseen. Their methods were harsh and often secretive, yet their reputation grew because they could face sorcerers and warlocks without fear.

As stories spread, the teachings of the Wardens drifted far beyond the wild lands. Many tribes and wandering clans began adopting pieces of their discipline. Some learned only enough to protect their villages from wandering spellcasters. Others embraced the full tradition and shaped it into a fierce philosophy of direct action. These followers believed that the simplest counter to magical dominance was overwhelming presence and unwavering resolve.

Modern practitioners of this path view themselves as guardians against any force that threatens to twist the world through sorcery. They do not all seek the total destruction of spellcasters. Instead, they stand ready to challenge any mage who would bend reality for selfish ends. Those who walk this path rely on instinct, endurance, and disciplined aggression, knowing that even the strongest spell must falter when met with a warrior who refuses to yield.

Level 3 - Enchanted Items

Magically enchanted and enhanced armor or weapons, though despised by the Mage Slayer, are able to be used if they are gifted, found, or purchased. The Mage Slayer will not seek out mages to have items enchanted, but understands that items already containing magic are better off in the hands of the barbarian than in the hands of mages.

Level 3 - Mage Focus

At 3rd level, you can focus your senses on a single spellcaster (any creature capable of casting spells or using spell-like abilities) you can see within 30 feet. For 1 minute, you gain one of the following benefits of your choice:

Defensive Focus: You have advantage on saving throws against spells or spell-like abilities cast by that creature.

Disruptive Focus: When that creature casts a spell or uses a spell-like ability, you can use your reaction to shout so forcefully that the weave itself is disrupted. The creature must make a Constitution saving throw equal to 10 + your Constitution Modifier. The caster gets a +2 bonus to their roll per level that the spell is cast at (No bonus for Cantrips). On a failure, the spell fails but the spell slot (if applicable) is not lost.

This focus ends early if the spellcaster moves greater than 120ft from you or if you are unconscious.

Magic cast from magic items cannot be disrupted by this ability. The target must be a creature that can cast spells or use spell-like abilities through its own innate or learned magical power.

Level 6 - Scent of the Enemy

Starting at 6th level, you learn to sniff out the thing you hate most: magic. When raging, you automatically gain the benefits of the Detect Magic spell. Additionally, starting at 6th level, you can expend one charge of your Rage to cast Detect Magic as a spell-like ability when you are not raging, instead focusing your anger and hatred on finding your target

Level 10 - Strike the Source

Starting at 10th level, you can channel your rage into a single, devastating strike. Once per turn, when you hit a creature that has spell slots with a melee weapon attack, you can use your bonus action to forgo your Rage damage bonus for that attack. If you do, the target must make a saving throw using its spellcasting ability. The DC equals 10 + your proficiency bonus + your Rage damage bonus. On a failed save, the creature loses its lowest-level remaining spell slot.

This feature works with creatures that have spell slots granted by class features, racial traits, or innate spellcasting, but does not affect spells cast through magic items. If the creature does not have a spellcasting ability or has no remaining spell slots, this feature has no effect.

Level 14 - Not On My Watch

Starting at 14th level, your hatred of magic can be focused into a small but powerful aura. While raging, you can use your action and expend an additional use of your Rage to create a 5-foot-radius anti-magic bubble centered on yourself.

This bubble functions like the Antimagic Field spell, but only within the 5-foot radius. It lasts for 1 minute or until your rage ends, whichever comes first.

While inside this bubble:

- Spells and magical effects cannot originate within or pass through the area.
- Any active spell or magical effect within the area is suppressed while inside the bubble.
- Magical items' properties are suppressed while within the bubble.

You can use this feature once per long rest.

PATH OF THE PREDATOR

BARBARIAN SUB-CLASS

Among the many paths walked by barbarians, some embrace a philosophy far older than civilization itself: the law of the hunt. Followers of the Path of the Predator do not merely fight with blind rage. They stalk, track, and strike with the patient certainty of a hunter who knows the moment of the kill will come. To them, battle is not chaos but instinct refined. They read the smallest signs of weakness in an opponent’s stance, breathe in rhythm with the motion of their prey, and unleash their rage at precisely the moment it will matter most. Most scholars trace the Predator path to the legendary hunter Korrak Redfang, a warrior of the Stone Maw clans. According to surviving accounts, Korrak survived alone in the savage wilderness of the Blackvein Range for nearly a year after his hunting party was wiped out by a monstrous chimera known as Ashclaw. During that time, he studied the creature relentlessly—learning its territory, its habits, and its weaknesses. When the confrontation finally came, witnesses claimed Korrak moved less like a warrior and more like a great hunting beast, circling, feinting, before finally striking with terrifying strength and fury until the monster finally fell.

Since that time, barbarians who follow the Path of the Predator have sought to emulate that philosophy. Some train among the wilds, honing their senses until they can track a wounded enemy across miles of forest or desert. Others learn to read the battlefield the way a hunter reads the forest floor, identifying the moment an enemy exposes themselves. Whether they draw inspiration from great beasts, legendary hunters, or the primal instincts buried deep within their own blood, these barbarians transform the battlefield into a hunting ground and their enemies into prey

Level 3 - Prey Mark

Starting at 3rd level, you learn to magically mark a creature as your quarry. As a bonus action, you can choose one creature you can see within 60 feet of you and mystically mark it as your prey. The mark lasts for 1 hour, until you lose concentration (as if concentrating on a spell) or mark a different creature. If the creature enters another dimension or leaves the plane, you know only that it has left, but you do not know its location until it returns.

You gain the following benefits while your prey is marked:

- You gain a +2 bonus to weapon attack rolls and damage rolls made against your prey.
- You have advantage on any Wisdom (Survival) or Intelligence (Investigation) check made to track your prey.
- As a bonus action, you can instantly learn your prey’s current location if it is on the same plane of existence as you.

Once you use this feature, you cannot use it again until you finish a short or long rest, and you cannot use it on the same target until the following day.

Additionally, difficult terrain does not cost you extra movement while you are raging.

Level 6 - You Cannot Hide

At 6th level, your focus on your prey allows you to overcome any obstacle. While you are raging, your marked prey cannot benefit from the Invisibility, Blur, or Mirror Image spells, nor from any feature or trait that would grant it concealment. You can see your prey clearly as if it were not magically obscured.

Furthermore, when your marked prey casts a spell that requires concentration, you can use your reaction to force it to make an immediate Concentration check. On a failed save, the spell’s concentration is broken. If the creature enters another dimension or leaves the plane, you know only that it has left, but you do not know its location until it returns.

Level 10 - Vicious Onslaught

At 10th level, your attacks become devastatingly precise against your prey. When you hit your marked prey with a weapon attack or unarmed strike, you can use your bonus action to make one additional attack against it. If this attack hits, the target’s speed is reduced by half until the end of your next turn.

Level 14 - Killer Instinct

At 14th level, you can predict your prey’s movements with uncanny precision. While raging and your prey is marked:

- You score a critical hit on a 19–20.
- When your prey moves more than 10 feet on its turn, you can move up to half your speed as a reaction. This movement does not provoke opportunity attacks.

You also gain additional uses of your Prey Mark. You may now use the Prey Mark ability a number of times equal to your proficiency bonus per long rest.

PATH OF THE IRON SENTINEL

BARBARIAN SUB-CLASS

Long before the rise of great kingdoms, small tribes survived only because someone was willing to stand between danger and the people they loved. These warriors did not rage for glory or conquest. Their fury burned for a single purpose: to endure whatever the world threw at them so others would not have to.

The earliest stories of the Iron Sentinels speak of a warrior named Brakka Stoneheart, who stood alone at the mouth of a canyon while her tribe fled approaching raiders. Witnesses claimed that arrows shattered against her skin like rain on stone, and that every enemy who tried to pass her found themselves dragged back into the storm of her rage.

Those who walk the Path of the Iron Sentinel learn to anchor themselves in battle. Their fury hardens into an immovable defense, forcing enemies to deal with them first. Allies fight more bravely at their side, knowing the Sentinel will endure blows meant for them. Where other barbarians rush forward in wild destruction, the Iron Sentinel becomes a living wall: unyielding, relentless, and impossible to ignore.

Level 3 - Guardian's Challenge

Starting at 3rd level, your rage compels your enemies to confront you directly. While you are raging, the first creature you hit with a melee weapon attack on your turn becomes challenged by you until the start of your next turn. While a creature is challenged:

- The creature has disadvantage on attack rolls against creatures other than you.
- If the creature hits a target other than you with an attack, it takes 1d4 psychic damage immediately after the attack resolves.
- The first opportunity attack you make against the challenged creature each round does not use your reaction.

Alternatively, you can challenge a foe from a distance, often offering them the first strike. As a bonus action while raging, choose one creature you can see within 30 feet of you. The creature must succeed on an Insight check contested by your Intimidation check or become challenged by you, as above.

You can challenge only one creature at a time. If you challenge another creature, the previous challenge ends. Creatures immune to the Frightened condition are immune to this feature.

Level 6 - Intercepting Fury

At 6th level, your rage allows you to physically intercept harm meant for others. When a creature you can see within 10 feet of you takes damage, you can use your reaction to move up to 10 feet toward that creature and take half of the damage instead. You can use this feature a number of times equal to your proficiency bonus per long rest.

Level 10 - Unbreakable Presence

Starting at 10th level, your sheer presence steels your allies against fear and harm. While you are raging, allies within 10 feet of you gain the following benefits:

- Advantage on saving throws against the Frightened condition
- Temporary hit points equal to your Constitution modifier at the start of each of their turns (these do not stack)

Additionally, you cannot be pushed, pulled, or knocked prone while raging unless you choose to be.

Level 14 - Sentinel's Dominion

You become an immovable bulwark on the battlefield. When raging, your size increases to Large if it is not already, and your Armor Class increases by 1. Additionally, when raging, creatures of your choice suffer 1/4 movement speed within 10 feet of you as the urge to confront you directly become overwhelming.